Group Discussion and Education

The present-day education system is slowly and steadily incorporating “Group discussion” into the learning system. It has been observed that the group Discussion opens up the students to the topic in a better way than conventional classroom teaching. The traditional classroom teaching-learning gets limited to a certain point as it does not actively involve students in the learning processes. It works on the approach of the speaker and a listener. Whereas, group discussion involves students actively in the process of learning. The students are not mere listeners over here, but, they are also the speaker.
